Weekly Technical Commentary

SNOW exhibits all the characteristics of a stock in a powerful, sustained uptrend. The price continues to make a series of higher highs and higher lows, respecting its steeply ascending 50-day moving average as dynamic support. Every minor pullback has been met with significant buying pressure, indicative of strong institutional demand. The breakout to new 52-week highs this past week is a significant bullish confirmation. Volume trends remain exceptionally positive, with On Balance Volume (OBV) and the U/D Ratio confirming the strength of the rally. There are no signs of trend exhaustion; the path of least resistance remains clearly higher.
